Summary of Key Topics Covered in this talk:

- Special alignment of our Sun with the Galactic Centre/Central Sun—Occurs 18 or 19 December each year. It is an alignment of the Earth, Sun, and Central Sun. This year (2021) the connection with the Central Sun is enhanced through the occurrence of the full moon during this alignment. This alignment remembers the ‘healing of the man born blind.’ Christ’s words “I AM the Light of the world” is the mantra for the healing of the third-eye chakra. The seven “I AM” sayings of Christ as the healing mantras for healing the seven chakras. Christ as Divine Healer, healing everywhere he went. Having brought down the power of the Central Sun to the Earth, His 3 ½ year ministry was not only about healing, but transforming death into life (Resurrection) and transforming the physical body into a body of radiant love (the goal of all spiritual development). Explanation of how we know that the alignment will occur on the 18th December 2021 at 4:00 pm. Clarification is given on how long the alignment will last. The relationship of the constellation of Sagittarius (the Archer and his bow and arrow) is outlined in regard to a) the birth of Jesus of Nazareth (in whom the Christ incarnated, Christ having descended from the Central Sun) and the teachings and healings of Christ Jesus; and b) the location of the Central Sun. The significance of this special alignment on the 18 or 19 December is mentioned in relation to Beethoven’s birth, his continuous receiving of Divine Music from the Central Sun, and his works of classical music.
- Second special alignment six months later—Occurs 17 or 18 June each year. It is an alignment of our Sun, Earth, and the Central Sun, which remembers the historical day of Pentecost (on 24 May in the year 33) when the disciples received the Divine Love (or Holy Spirit) streaming from the Central Sun, and in whom the birth of Christ took place.
- The Galactic Centre/Central Sun/Divine Heart of our galaxy—The Galactic Centre with its four spiral arms and Milky Way Galaxy is explained. It is the Divine Heart from which all the stars of our galaxy were born. The difference between first and second generation stars is clarified – the Orion Nebula given as an example of a stellar nursery for four new second generation stars. The Central Sun, the Divine Heart of our galaxy, continuously streams out Divine Love which is received by all the stars and our Sun and is then stepped-down to Earth. The swastika found in India is mentioned as a symbol of the Galactic Centre and spiral arms. How the Galactic Centre was discovered through radio astronomy is outlined and how to find the location of the Galactic Centre is given. The significance, is explained, of the orientation of the Inca to the Milky Way and the Southern Cross and why their architecture was based on a symbolised form of the Southern Cross.
- The Sidereal/Babylonian Zodiac—A brief history is given of the zodiac (which was the subject of Robert’s PhD thesis). The difference between the Sidereal Zodiac and Tropical Calendar is explained and how Tropical astrology came about. An explanation is also given of the vernal point and the zodiac.
- Challenge of the present time—Robert mentions what is happening in the world through the globalist agenda of transhumanist totalitarian technocracy as a force of opposition to the Divine Plan held by Christ and Sophia. The vaccination program is the means to entrap human souls spiritually, to genetically modify them, and to hook them up to continuous surveillance via 5G—in short, a plan of enslavement to the global elites. It is noted that the vaccines have both a biophysical impact and a spiritual impact and that it is possible to come out of this (explanations of how to go about this are given in Robert’s previous podcasts). It is now a time of choice, division of the ‘sheep’ from the ‘goats’: the ascending path of Christ, or descending path of materialism. Harbingers of hope are the coming of the Maitreya Buddha, the bearer of the Good, and the coming of the Kalki Avatar who fights against evil.
- The life after death and reincarnation—The life of the soul after death through the planetary spheres is outlined, including how, at a certain point, a human soul becomes aware of their previous lives and makes a decision to reincarnate in a new life on Earth. The intimate connection of the human being with Mother Earth is emphasised, and the need for human beings to spiritually awaken and to help Mother Earth—a counterforce to the plundering and looting of the Earth by the globalists and their evil agendas.

- Conclusion—In conclusion, homage is paid to the great teachers of humanity and their gifts in helping humankind to reach their spiritual goals, thus drawing every closer to the Central Sun, the Divine Heart of our galaxy.

Welcome

Today is a very special day in the cycle of the year. Today is the day when our Sun, our local star, aligns with the centre of our galaxy—what astronomers refer to as the Galactic Centre—and what in esotericism is referred to as the Central Sun.

I hope everybody can see this. This is a map of the Milky Way Galaxy that was published in the National Geographic in 1999. You can see that the artist has really captured the Galactic Centre as a sun-like object. I know many people are going to be thinking—yes, but at the centre of the galaxy is a super massive Black Hole—which is the general idea in present day astronomy. But this is simply a lack of the capacity of materialistic thinking to grasp that this location is the transition point from the realm of pure spirit to matter.

When we contemplate the Galactic Centre we see that there are four great spiral arms proceeding from this Centre, and there are some other arms as well within the Milky Way Galaxy which have separated off from these four great arms. When we look at this Centre and the spiral arms we can recognise that this is like the symbol that we see all over India—if you go to their temples. [A swastika symbol is drawn on the board]. So you recognise this symbol as the swastika. When you visit the temples in India you see both kinds of swastika.

The idea is, if we imagine this Centre—the Central Sun—rotating, then you would have these spiral arms coming out. And the spiral arms are made up of stars. The new-born stars are closer to the centre, and the older stars are more out here in the periphery of our Milky Way Galaxy. When we look at this, we can understand something very profound—and that is that all the stars in the Milky Way Galaxy are born out from the Central Sun. This is like the heart of our Milky Way Galaxy—this great heart which is also referred to as the “Divine Heart”—and from here all the stars of our galaxy have been born.

That statement was true at a certain point in time, but now we have the birth of second-generation stars from other places in our galaxy. For example, if you have a powerful telescope and you look up at the constellation of Orion, in the northern hemisphere you see the three stars in the belt of Orion pointing down to the very bright star Sirius. Beneath the central star of these three stars, you see a cluster or a nebula—what is called the “Orion Nebula.” If you have a very powerful telescope and you look at the Orion Nebula, it is incredibly beautiful—it is a really amazingly beautiful sight—and there inside that Nebula you see four new-born baby stars—each only about a million years old, which is very young for stars! They form a configuration of a trapezium.

This Orion Nebula is what is now called “a nebula nursery,” and the stars being born in this stellar nursery are second-generation. So we have the first-generation stars which were born out of the Galactic Centre and now we have, as our Milky Way Galaxy is maturing in age, the birth of second-generation stars. But generally speaking we could say that everything has been born out of the Galactic Centre, because the second-generation stars are born from first-generation stars which have come from the Galactic Centre.

The Galactic Centre is a very special place. As I mentioned, in esotericism it is referred to as the Central Sun. Today, on the day when we have this alignment of our Sun with the Central Sun, it is a special day each year, because this occurs every year—at the present point in time, always around the 18th or 19th of December.

[Question from the audience] – What defines that they are aligned now?

Robert: To illustrate this, will three people stand up and come to the front please? Bruno, you can be the Sun, Sandra is the Central Sun, and Lucky is the Earth (aligned in a straight line in this order: Earth, Sun, and Central Sun). So looking from the Earth, the Earth sees first our Sun and then—if we could see the Galactic Centre—we would see that it is an alignment, a straight line. Do you see that? That is what is meant by this alignment. I want to also show you something else. Bruno if you come a step this way towards Lucky (keeping in the line). Our Sun moves around the Galactic Centre once every (approximately) twenty-seven million years. It takes a very long time! In the time in which we are looking now, Bruno (Sun) is not going to move, right? But the Earth (Lucky) rotates around our Sun once in one year. Lucky (Earth) moves around Bruno (Sun) and stops between the Sun (Bruno) and the Central Sun (Sandra). This is now also an alignment of our Earth between our Sun and the Central Sun.

This was an amazing discovery I made that on the historical day of Pentecost—with the sending out of the Holy Spirit to the disciples of Christ—this historically took place on May 24th in the year 33. All of these dates you can find in my book, Chronicle of the Living Christ, where—for the first time in the history of Christianity—all the dates are precisely worked out with a mathematical proof that these are the exact dates. These dates are not in any way random. They are the precise, authentic and exact dates. That is the only work in the world right now where you can find this. So May the 24th the day of Pentecost, and on that day the Earth was in this position in this alignment.

Our endeavour is, of course, is to try and understand what this Central Sun is. What we have to imagine now is that there were special conditions prevailing on the day of Pentecost. From the Central Sun there is a continuous stream of Divine Love which is being received by all the stars in the heavens—including our Sun. This is something on a very high level. Our Sun then steps down this stream of Divine Love so that we can receive something of this here upon the Earth.

Under these special circumstances—which we will go into later on—the disciples of Christ were able, on that day, to receive directly the radiation of the Central Sun, which was seen as—what is called—the Holy Spirit or tongues of fire coming down from above. Already, when we have this imagination, we can understand that what is streaming out continuously from the Central Sun, is what is called the Holy Spirit. This enlightening stream of Divine Fire was seen as tongues of fire above the heads of the disciples. The disciples were then transformed into apostles. The difference is that the disciples are receiving the teachings of the Master, and as apostles they were then empowered, through the birth of Christ within, to go out into the world and to teach and to heal in the name of Christ. There are reports of the disciples who actually were able to raise people from the death.

So this is a picture of one form of the alignment with the Earth between the Central Sun and our Sun. Now Lucky (Earth) if you come back here again (alignment of the Earth, Sun and Central Sun), this is the other form of alignment—and this is what we have today. And also at this time, there was a very special event which reveals to us something of what the quality of the Central Sun is. It would take me a few minutes to develop that—however, this alignment occurs at the present time every year around the 18th-19th December. It depends whether you have a leap year or something like that, then it shifts everything by a day.

With the other form of the alignment, it takes six months for the Earth to move to this position [Lucky (Earth) moves around Bruno (Sun) to stand between the Sun (Bruno) and the Central Sun (Sandra)]. We go forwards six months from December 18th-19th and we come to June. It is actually June 17th-18th, around that time, when there is this alignment. So these are two special points in the year. This alignment remembers the event of Pentecost which was the actual birth of Christianity when the disciples on that day became apostles and went out to the Pool of Bethesda in Jerusalem and, as it is described, they baptised 3,000 people. Just try and imagine that. Can you imagine going out on the streets of Vilcabamba! There was something at work, there was a cosmic power—this power of the Holy Spirit that was streaming in. The apostles were able to transmit that. This was an amazing event. So that was at that point.

Now let's come back around here [Lucky (Earth) moves back to stand before the Sun (Bruno), thus forming once more the alignment of Earth, Sun and Central Sun]. When there was this alignment, on that day, Christ healed the man born blind, and He spoke the words "I AM the Light of the world." The man born blind, as we can imagine, had never seen with his physical eyes. When Christ came to heal the blind man, He spat upon the Earth and He mixed this into a kind of paste and then put it on the blind man's eyes. Christ then told the man to go to the Pool of Siloam in Jerusalem and wash this off—which he did. He was then able to see. His name was Chelitonius, or sometimes spoken as Chelidonium, or in France he is known as Saint Sidonius. He was one of those who went to France together with Mary Magdalene and her sister Martha, and her brother Lazarus. That is a longer story.

Chelitonius was a very special person. You can imagine having been blind and then having your eyes opened—to be able to see. That was the impact of that healing miracle. But the point is that, at this very moment—like what we have today—is the cosmic commemoration of this line-up [Earth, Sun, and Central Sun] when Christ said at the healing of the blind man: "I AM the Light of the world."

This is to be understood in this sense. Of course we have to distinguish between Christ and Jesus, and we have to forget everything that we are taught about historical Christianity and all the things that have happened which are human events. We are talking now about something supernatural. The Being of Christ came from the Central Sun and descended over a long period of time. One can actually follow the stages of His descent. I have been able to do that. The moment of the Baptism of Jesus in the River Jordan by John the Baptist, was when this Being—who had descended from the Central Sun—came down into the being of Jesus of Nazareth. This was the "birth" of the one we call the "God-man" or Christ-Jesus.

This was this very special moment and, from that moment in time, this Being—this God-man—began His 3 ½ year ministry when He went around Palestine teaching and healing. Everywhere He went, He healed people. We don't really have this in the English language, but in the German language Christ is referred to as "der Heilende"—which means "the healer"—because that is what He was doing the whole time. He didn't even need to touch people—just His presence was streaming out healing life-giving energy—and this healing power was so great that he was even able to raise people from the dead. There are certain accounts of Him raising people from the dead. So He overcame death.

He was the Lord of Life and, for those 3 ½ years of grace on planet Earth, He was streaming out this power that lives and streams continually from the Central Sun. I am relating this so that we can have some understanding of what this power is. Christ brought the power of the Central Sun down to the Earth for those 3 ½ years, and through that, He was able to overcome the laws prevailing here on Earth which, as we know, comprise death. This is a plain reality—at the end of life there is death. But imagine, He was able to transform that, and He did so with His own death through the Resurrection. He transformed death.

This power of Divine Love was working in Him so strongly down into His physical body that He transformed the physical body into a body of radiant love. And then He was able to descend down to the heart of the Earth to the Earth Mother. He then rose to the surface of the Earth and He was teaching the disciples for forty days. He could appear and disappear. He could go through closed doors and so on. This is something that we will all arrive at in the future, but what He attained in one single incarnation, takes most human beings a great many life times to reach this level of being so permeated with the power of Divine Love that one is able to transform one's physical body. This is really the goal of all spiritual development. We can become so empowered by this power of Divine Love. We each have a spark of it in us—what the mystics call "the divine spark"—from the Central Sun. That is our true self. The only problem is that in the present age of materialism, we have forgotten our divine origin.

This is background to this which I want to refer to again just so we can understand this Central Sun. Does anybody recognise this? [A picture of the "Throne of God"—as described in Dante's Divine Comedy—is held up to the audience]. Let me tell you what it is. The great Italian poet, Dante, wrote a book called the Divine Comedy where his beloved Beatrice (Beatrice had died) on a soul-level accompanied Dante to cosmic heights of existence as his guide. If you look closely down at the bottom here, you see the see the silhouette of Dante and Beatrice beholding the Central Sun. There was a series of paintings or graphic designs by the French graphic designer, Gustave Doré, and this is, as it were, the peak of Dante's journey accompanied by Beatrice. Dante didn't, of course, have the concept of the Central Sun, so he describes this as the "Throne of God" with all the angelic beings around this. But actually, when you compare this with what modern astronomy has come to, you could say that Dante got there seven hundred years ahead of modern astronomers, and he saw it with his own eyes. There are many wonderful things that Dante describes of this. He also describes the Being who is referred to in the Book of Revelation as the "Bride of the Lamb." We need to remember that Christ has a Divine Feminine counterpart—the "Bride of the Lamb"—as She is referred to. Awakening to this great Being, She is referred to as Sophia—Divine Sophia. Sophia comes from the Greek and means "wisdom." In Hebrew, the same word is "Chokmah," Divine Wisdom.

The understanding is that Christ is the masculine power, the Divine Son, who is referred to as the Logos which means “the Word,” and Sophia—the “Bride of the Lamb”—is the “Wisdom.” For example, when somebody speaks, the words are coming out and you usually hope there is some underlying wisdom to what is being said. Similarly, with Christ’s work of creating the Earth and humanity and all that the Logos undertook to do, this was together with Sophia—Divine Wisdom.

I just want to give a little perspective—what humanity is now going through at the present point in time is an incredible challenge. I think most people are aware that there is a great battle taking place at the present time. I have actually done a series of 57 podcasts to describe this because it is something so vast, and most people have no idea what is really happening on planet Earth at the present time.

It is so important that we have this higher perspective of our existence. Each of us has a divine spark within us. We are created beings and Christ came to show us the goal of the future, which is the Resurrection, and that this is possible. He attained it. Every human being has this possibility in the course of time. This is, as it were, the individual goal for humanity. But there is a group goal as well—and that is expressed beautifully by Beethoven in his Ninth Symphony—which is that human beings are to become this great community of brothers and sisters in an understanding of our divinity. That is what we are looking towards in the future.

Other great teachers brought this as well, of course—for example, Gautama Buddha who brought the teaching of peace and compassion—which is what we need so much in our world right now. What we have to realise is that all these great teachers all work together and there is a harmony. You can see this also in the Hindu tradition with Rama and Krishna. These are great Avatars and they each brought something as a gift for humanity.

We are in a situation now where—just to put it briefly—there is a counterpart, a force of opposition, to the Divine Plan which is held by Christ and Sophia. There is a force of opposition and I was able to trace this back to ancient times. We are now approaching the end of the age of Pisces. This may seem like a diversion, but I’m going to come back to our main theme. We are in the age of Pisces at the present point in time.

I do have one handout—I hope there are enough copies of this. Unfortunately, I think everybody here knows that it is very difficult to make good photocopies here in Vilcabamba! So this is kind of faint—but anyway, let’s just pass these out. This is two-sided. On one side you will see that this is the zodiac, but it is what nowadays is referred to as the “Sidereal zodiac.” It is the original zodiac.

There was only one zodiac originally. This summarises my doctoral thesis, my PhD thesis, which was on the history of the zodiac. It took me thirty years—a kind of excavation work—to go back to the origin—to what the original definition of the zodiac was—the original scientific definition. This was from the Babylonians. What one has to bear in mind is that the Babylonians—those priests or whoever it was who made these observations—inscribed them on cuneiform tablets, and these cuneiform tablets were excavated in the nineteenth century and began to be deciphered. But it wasn’t until towards the end of the nineteenth century, and the beginning of the twentieth century, that this discovery of the original zodiac was made—and it was only in a relatively small circle of people, Assyriologists, (which is the name of people who study this kind of thing—the deciphering of cuneiform texts, a rather specialised activity).

Anyway, what becomes clear from this is that the Babylonians transmitted their knowledge of the stars to the Greeks and to the Egyptians, and then this came to the Romans. The main city where the ancient astrology gathered, was the city of Alexandria founded by Alexander the Great. That was a kind of melting pot for Greek wisdom, Egyptian mystery wisdom, and the Babylonian wisdom. There was then transmitted from Alexandria a book all the way to India.

So the zodiac came to India in about the second century after Christ. Before that, you don't find any mention of the zodiac. But in India they had their own division of the starry heavens called the "Nakshatras." I have gone into all of this in my PhD thesis, and the book of the thesis is called History of the Zodiac.

Also in Egypt they didn't have the zodiac until they received it through the transmission from Babylon. But they had their own division of the starry heavens into 36 decans. The 36 decans then became integrated into the twelve signs of the zodiac. Each sign of the zodiac is 30° long. I think most people know that. Twelve times 30 is 360° —a circle. So the 36 decans, 3 decans—each 10° long, became incorporated into the signs of the zodiac. But this hasn't really been transmitted in the history of astrology. It is this transmission of the history of astrology which offers us a key.

This is just a very brief summary of what happened. There was only one zodiac in antiquity, and this was the zodiac of what is now called the Sidereal zodiac. This is what we see here. What I accomplished with my PhD thesis was a precise definition of the original zodiac, including a star catalogue, because it is the actual stars that define the zodiac—and the word "astrology" means the 'science of the stars.' So it is not surprising to find that the stars played a role.

The Greeks used the word "planet"—or planetes in Greek. We speak of the planets. Planetes in Greek, means "the moving stars." So these are the planets for the star gazers. Those were the stars they could see in the heavens that moved against the background of what they called the "fixed stars." They needed to have some way of defining the movements of the planets, and the Babylonians came up with the zodiac—these twelve 30° divisions.

Then when Greek astronomers were making their observations, they didn't know how the Babylonians defined the zodiac. And so they came up with a new definition. The great Greek astronomer Ptolemy—who lived in the second century after Christ in Alexandria—wrote a book called The Tetrabiblos (meaning The Four Books of Astrology)—not that he cast any horoscopes or anything like that, but he was interested in it because it was really quite the thing in Alexandria. In The Tetrabiblos, you find the sentence from Ptolemy—the key sentence which changed the whole history of astrology—"the sign of Aries begins with the vernal point." The Greek astronomers knew how to define the vernal point. Ptolemy's book, The Tetrabiblos, was published round about 150 years after Christ, and at that time the vernal point was at 1° of Aries in Babylonian zodiac. It was at 1° of Aries, and so you could say—when he said the sign of Aries begins with the vernal point—he was only 1° out—which was pretty good!

There is only one sentence mentioning this, but nobody else paid any attention to it. And then the book was translated into Arabic, and the Arabic astrologers didn't know that there was a preceding Babylonian astrology based on the division of the starry heavens into twelve 30° signs. They took their division of the zodiac from the vernal point. They said, “The maestro, Ptolemy, says the sign of Aries begins with the vernal point,” and so they developed—with the Arabian astrologers—a new form of astrology which nowadays is called “Tropical astrology.” So you have the ancient Sidereal zodiac, and then you have Tropical astrology because it relates to the Tropic of Capricorn, the Tropic of Cancer, and so on—which is this new zodiac.

[Audience participant asks what the vernal point is]

Robert: The vernal point is the position of the Sun on the day of the vernal equinox at the moment when the Sun is crossing the—well, if you project the Earth’s equator out to where the path of the Sun is—the path of the Sun is called the “ecliptic” against the background of the stars. Where the Earth’s equator intersects the ecliptic—that is the defining point of the vernal point. If you are in the northern hemisphere, the Sun is moving northward—appears to be moving northward—and then reaches its high-point at midsummer, $23\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$ latitude north. And then it begins to descend, and then on the day of the fall equinox, or the autumnal equinox, again the Sun is seen to be crossing this projection of the Earth’s equator. That is the fall equinox, and that is opposite the spring equinox. So the autumnal point is opposite the vernal point.

There would be no problem, but the vernal point moves backwards through the Sidereal zodiac at 1° every 72 years. It is a very important number actually. One degree every 72 years used to be understood as the length of human life. So you live through 1° of the precession of the equinoxes.

So you can see, now, from this [holding up a diagram of the Sidereal zodiac] that where it says “VP” on the right-hand side here—“VP 5° —the vernal point, since the time of Ptolemy, has moved back to 5° of Pisces. I know many people will be thinking, “Oh yes, but surely the age of Aquarius has already begun?” That was a money-making endeavour—“This is the age of Aquarius” and all of that! But astronomically speaking, you can see that the vernal point is still in the division we call Pisces.

You can figure this out now. The vernal point is moving back 1° every 72 years, so to move the 5° , that is going to take $5 \times 72 = 360$ years. So, in approximately 360 years’ time is when the vernal point will be at 30° Aquarius. That is when the age of Aquarius will begin. The exact date is the year 2375—okay! That is when the age of Aquarius begins which, in the grand scheme of things, is not that far away!

This is just a very basic, quick review of what we need to know, because the question is: “Where is the Central Sun—the Galactic Centre?”

If you practice star gazing, and you go out on a night where there is not really much Moonlight—around the time of the New Moon there is not much Moonlight—and then you see, on the one hand, the circle of the zodiac. This is identifiable because the planets—the moving stars—always move through the zodiac.

In astronomy, the zodiac is defined to be a band of stars extending 8° north of the ecliptic and 8° south of the ecliptic. Remember the ecliptic is the passage of the Sun—but it’s really, we have to say, the apparent movement of the Sun, because in reality it is the Earth that is moving around the Sun. As we saw when Lucky was moving around Bruno, from the Earth, it appears that the Sun is moving. It is the apparent movement of the Sun in one year. We notice this, of course, because after one year we celebrate our birthday. On the day of our birthday, the Sun returns to the same position where it was at our birth—aligned with a particular star.

All of these things which I am speaking about are on the new level of astrology. You won't find this in traditional astrology—but it is obvious when you start to work with the zodiac of the stars. What happens is, very often, somebody comes up to me afterwards and says: “But I know I'm an Aquarius, I'm not a Capricorn!” And I say, “I don't have any agenda, you can believe whatever you want to believe. I am just telling the truth, and that is what is important to know.” And then very often the person comes again a few months later and says, “You know, I really am a Capricorn, I understand now.” So, it is just a matter of being open-minded. Most people are incredibly attached to what they believe to be their zodiacal sign. But just explore and see what comes. If you are open-minded see what new thoughts you might receive.

Just on a humorous level—I was invited to give a talk at an astrological conference in Brussels. I carefully prepared my talk in French and presented my research. Then the guy who was speaking after me, was a professor of Catholic theology from the University of Louvain, and he was also a passionate astrologer. Like most astrologers, he was a Tropical astrologer. He was a very squat, well-built guy. He sat down at his table and said, “We have our beautiful astrology and here comes Powell turning it all upside down.” He said, pounding on the table, “Just imagine, I a Gemini, am supposed to be a Taurus!” Anyway!

[Audience participant: So Robert, the fundamental error that the Arabs made with the Tropical zodiac, was that they didn't recognise that the Sun moved?]

Robert: Well, they based everything upon the vernal point, and the vernal point does move, you see. You could say that Ptolemy made an error. No, he didn't. What he said was correct for his time. But, if the Arab astrologers had been really smart, they would have said, “Wait a moment, what Ptolemy was talking about has all shifted now,” because they were casting horoscopes a few hundred years later. Anyway, this is a huge theme and it would take us away from our main theme of this alignment today.

So, how do we know that today is this alignment with the Galactic Centre? For years I brought out a journal full of wonderful articles about this kind of research that I am talking about, and also the latter part gives ephemerides. An ephemeris is a tabulation, usually day by day, giving where the Sun, the Moon, and the planets are to be found in the signs of the zodiac. In this work I gave the Sidereal ephemeris. [Holding up a copy of the Star Journal for 2021] This is for this year 2021. It says “Volume 3”—I had been publishing this work for many years, since 1991, and then it just was time for me to pass it on to somebody else. So I passed it on to a young, enthusiastic, friend of mine Joel Park. This is the third volume of which he is the editor. It is basically the same structure as what I worked on for all those years.

If you look here for today, Saturday the 18th December, you can find that the Sun entered Sagittarius at 7:00 pm. All the times are given according to Greenwich Mean Time—what is now called Universal Time. So that holds in London. Here in Ecuador, we are always five hours behind. You just have to subtract mentally five hours, so that means that on the 16th—that was Thursday—the Sun entered the sidereal sign of Sagittarius at 2:00 pm. In Greenwich Mean Time it was at 7:00 pm. We are always five hours behind. Then you can figure out that today, at around 4:00 pm, the Sun will be at 2^o, 6 minutes of Sagittarius. That is the exact location of the Central Sun. The Galactic Centre is 2^o, 6 minutes of Sagittarius.

And so this is how I know that today is the day of this alignment! The Sun moves one degree a day—approximately. We have 360^o in a circle, and we have 365 ¼ days in the year—so you can figure it out—the Sun moves approximately one degree a day. This is the rate of the movement of the Sun. At 2:00 pm on Thursday, the Sun entered Sagittarius—so round about 2:00 pm Friday (that’s the first degree of Sagittarius), and 2:00 pm today is the second degree of Sagittarius. And we have to get another 6 minutes in—so, round about 4:00 pm today we have the exact alignment with the Central Sun.

If we think of these words of Christ: “I AM the Light of the world,” He means the spiritual light. It is the spiritual light that we need to awaken to. The healing of the man born blind—and all these healing miracles that were performed by Christ continuously everywhere He went—were like seed-impulses for the future, because essentially every human being who is not clairvoyant, who is not seeing the realm of the spirit with the third-eye—or what is called the two-petal lotus flower—is “born blind.” We need this Light of the world to see the world of spirit and to overcome the Voodoo magic of materialism—because that’s what it is essentially. We need to overcome the propaganda that there is only one life, the life between birth and death, and that we had better make the most of it and acquire as much as possible in this one life!

What my work has been about is to show that there is this life, and then there is the life after death, which is the life of passage, ascending through the realms of our solar system together with angelic beings—angels, archangels and so on. This is what every human being lives through in the life after death. And then, at a certain point, we reach what we can refer to as the “midnight hour” between two incarnations. Up until that point in time—on the level of soul and spirit I am talking about of course—we look back to our preceding life on Earth. And then at a certain point we become aware that there is more, there are further lives extending back through the course of time. Eventually we see that we have a whole chain of lives going all the way back to the event that is called “the Fall,” which was the beginning of human incarnations upon planet Earth. Then, at this midnight hour of existence, is when the human being decides to return to the Earth, to reincarnate, to take up our divine destiny, because every human being’s destiny is actually intrinsically a divine gift.

We are here to work for the benefit of our fellow human beings and for Mother Earth. Our whole existence is intimately bound up with Mother Earth. Mother Earth is waiting for us to spiritually awaken and to help Her. So we can be grateful to people like Walter with Finca Sagrada, working on this project for Mother Earth. Without this awareness, Mother Earth is being destroyed, is being plundered—is just regarded as something to be looted.

This, unfortunately, is the deeper plan of the globalists. They have their meetings in Davos, Switzerland, and they just recently had a meeting in Glasgow, in Scotland. Just imagine—with all of those private jets flying in—how many tonnes of carbon dioxide are dumped in the atmosphere. They don’t say anything about that! And then they have all these noble words about ‘climate change,’ and the need to protect the Earth, and so on and so forth, but as López Obrador, the President of Mexico, spoke out, he said: “This is nothing but a virulent form of colonialism,” because they want to establish that they have the right to go into any country to loot and take whatever they want. They want everything, these people. They want our souls, they want everything.

This is what is taking place at the present point in time. I don't know about you, but I question the situation when somebody like Bill Gates stands up and says, "Everybody on planet Earth has got to be vaccinated, and then maybe we can have a little bit of going back to normal—but it won't be quite what you have known before, because we're going to hook you up with 5G, you're going to become transhuman creations!"

So it is very important that we become awake to who we are on a deeper level. The enticement to get the vaccine, to have a vaccine card, to go to nice restaurants, and to be able to fly around, and so on—this is the lure of these globalists who want to ensnare us. More evidence is coming out now. Karen Kingston, who used to work for Pfizer, is horrified at what is taking place. She has turned whistle-blower, and she says that what everybody needs to know, who gets the vaccine, is that you are going to be hooked up to a centralised computer system and you will be tracked and traced in real-time. Everywhere you go, they will know everything you are doing—when you are asleep or awake—when you go out to a restaurant or whatever, who you are with and so on." This is what Bill Gates means by stating, "Everybody should get vaccinated and then we can go back to normal"—this is the lure—but it is a "new" kind of normality—what some people call "the human being 2.0" (even that is computer language) or transhumanism. You can read about it on the website of the World Economic Forum. That is what they want, and what they are pushing for, and what they call the "Fourth Industrial Revolution," the "Global Reset."

We have to choose. Where do we want to go? Do we want to go towards Resurrection as the goal pointed to by Christ, or do we want to go towards becoming electronic slaves of the globalists? That is the other direction. We are now faced with this choice—everybody who is here on planet Earth now—this is the big choice we have to make. It is prophesied by Christ. He talks about His coming again, and that when He comes, He will come as the Divine King. He said it would be a time of the division into the "sheep and the goats." This is of course the language that He was speaking at that time. A shepherd had to be able to divide his sheep from his goats. We mustn't place too much importance on these words—although (I could go into it) there is a very deep esoteric significance to this choice of words.

If you go to the Sistine Chapel in the Vatican, you see there this incredible painting by Michael Angelo. He shows this—he shows Christ on His throne together with the Virgin Mary and the disciples, and he shows those souls who have chosen the ascending path and those souls who have chosen a descending path. There is much more to it than this. It is all a matter of free choice—nobody is forced to do anything, but it is good to know that there is a choice. Most people have no idea that now is the time we are to make a choice.

What I wanted to bring forward today is simply this time, today, when these words were spoken with the healing of the man born blind—"I AM the Light of the world"—this is a time when we can think about the Light of the world. The words: "I AM the Light of the world" is the Christ mantra for the opening of the third eye. There is the Christ mantra for the opening of the crown chakra—that is: "I AM the Resurrection and the Life." The Christ mantra for the opening of the heart chakra is: "I AM the Bread of Life." And so on. There are seven "I AM" sayings you can find in the Gospel of St John, and you find the seven healing miracles which are related to the seven chakras. I am talking from the standpoint, now, of esoteric Christianity. You won't find anything of this in mainstream Christianity which, actually, is going in a very weird direction—unfortunately. There are incredible treasures buried in this tradition—but I won't go into it.

I am just very happy to be here in Vilcabamba—it is a wonderful place—and to meet kindred souls here who are awake and aware of what is taking place. And I just want to thank my friend, Boris, who is videotaping this. Boris has escaped from Vienna.

I don't know if you know what is shaping up there in Austria, but it is an absolute nightmare, because there are about seven million people in Austria who have received the vaccine and about two million who haven't, and they are being told they have to receive the vaccine by the beginning of February. That is not long to go. If they don't, there will be heavy fines, and even prison sentences. This, unfortunately, is what the globalists are after. They want everybody to be vaccinated and to get hooked up to the transhumanist agenda so that everybody will be tracked and traced like human cattle—everything one does will be tracked and traced.

This is a very sinister plan, and the opponent of Christ is behind this plan and is working behind the scenes. I have seen this very clearly. If you want to follow up on this particular theme further, then go to the website, Sophia School of Movement, and there you will find my podcasts. In these podcasts I have gone into these things on different levels—the biophysical level of what is taking place and also the soul-spiritual level. On the soul-spiritual level, it is all moving towards what we could call “entrapment.”

These people, they mean it. Fortunately, there is also an awakening taking place. Back on November 20th, 2021, in about thirty countries around the world, there were hundreds of thousands of people who took to the streets showing that they want freedom—and do not want this totalitarian tyranny that the globalists are after. We want freedom. I think most people here do want freedom, which is why we are all here.

I'd also like to thank Darren and Beatrice for the work with the alliance and just keeping Vilcabamba as a safe and protective place. It is a safe place. The angels are working here to create a safe haven. So many people have heard the whispering ‘go to Vilcabamba.’

I am just going to share something now from the Inca tradition. As many of you know, the Inca priests and royalty used to come here to Vilcabamba, to the Sacred Valley, and recharge—because here there is actually something very special. If you go back historically you find that in about 1917 there began this process of the electrification of the Earth when there came about like a kind of electrical grid over the Earth called the Hartmann Grid. This actually impacts all life in a subtle way, because this grid has crossing points. For example, if your bed is on a crossing point, you're going to get disturbed sleep—if you are able to sleep at all. This is affecting the whole world. But here in the Sacred Valley of Vilcabamba, as far as I have been able to determine, this hasn't happened. So, thank you, Darren for keeping out 5G and this stuff! We want to keep it as this vital realm where there is a possibility of living a truly human, vibrant life.

[Question from the audience] What do you think is the significance of having the Earth alignment opposite the full moon?]

Robert: We are approaching the full moon, so round about 4:00 pm—which is in fifteen minutes time—we have this alignment of our Sun exactly with the Central Sun. And then, around 11:30 pm (7 ½ hours later) is the full moon. So the Moon is also going to be part of this alignment. So this makes it even more special this year. This particular day is strongly emphasising our connection with the Central Sun.

I mentioned that when you go out and you are star-gazing—you see on the one hand the circle of the zodiac and the planets of our solar system are moving within this space—8° north and south of the ecliptic—except for Pluto which wanders a bit further away. This is, as it were, what I call the “heart meridian” for our local part of the galaxy which is called the Orion Arm.

Why is it called the Orion Arm? Because when we look up at the constellation of Orion—I’m sure most people recognise the three stars in the Belt of Orion—the constellation of Orion is the centre of the Orion Arm. What I spoke of with this stellar nursery, the Orion Nebula, is the exact centre of the Orion Arm.

They don’t know when, or they don’t even know from which of the four main arms the Orion Arm separated off, but a long time ago anyway the Orion Arm separated off. I believe it is because it has to do with freedom—human beings are about becoming free. Actually, at the present point in time we have attained that to a very high degree in comparison with earlier times. So we need to celebrate this.

But now there is this force working to hijack the whole evolution of the Earth—as we’ve said—to have 5G everywhere—to kill the animals, the birds, and the bees and everything—and to hook us up so we become electronic serfs. We could lose our freedom.

I do want to mention what the Inca observed. It was not so much the zodiac they observed—which is what the Babylonians were looking at—what the Inca observed was what we call the Milky Way. Why is it called the Milky Way Galaxy? It is this other very magnificent circle of stars which forms the central axis, the heart meridian, of the Milky Way Galaxy. So we have the heart meridian of our local part of the galaxy—the Orion Arm—which is the zodiac, especially for our Sun, and we have the heart meridian of the Milky Way Galaxy.

The Inca priests were very much oriented towards the Milky Way Galaxy, and very important for them was the Southern Cross. If you look at it spiritually, you see like the stream of life-energy coming round the Milky Way. It is flowing around the Milky Way and comes down into the Southern Cross. And so the Inca took the sacred symbol of the Southern Cross for all their architecture. They derived this sacred symbol from the shape of the Southern Cross. They were really living into something for the future.

This is what I found when I began to research into the life of Christ. I found that the miracles in His life were aligned with very powerful stars—what I call “mega stars”—but that would have to be a different talk.

[Question from a member of the audience] (First part is inaudible) ... would you consider reading an invocation where we can sit in a spiral and tune in to the vibration of the alignment we are entering? The second part of the question is – since the Earth is moving 1° a day, do we presume that this alignment lasts one day or how long does it last? And the third part of the question is – are these cycles and various, you know, Sagittarius—are these connected to the Yugas – from Kali Yuga to Satya Yuga?

Robert: No, no—that’s a different system. With the first question, we’ll have a short closing meditation to honour this moment and attune our hearts to this incredible alignment which you have picture now: the Moon, then the earth, then the Sun and then the Galactic Centre. For us human beings, the Earth is our frame of reference. In each incarnation we return to the Earth. The different heavenly bodies are connected with heavenly beings, and so the cycle of the Moon is related to the activity of the angelic beings. The full moon is the time from new moon to full moon and back to new moon—29 ½ days—which is like 1 day for them. So the full moon is like their midnight.

[Question from a member of the audience] So this alignment is like a Moon cycle?

Robert: Well, it just so happens this year to be the case. It is exceptional. The full moon is in 7 ½ hours’ time.

[Question from the same member of the audience] But then it will go to the next full moon. Is that the duration of the actual alignment?

Robert: No. I would take one day before and then one day after. We are in the day now which began yesterday—say 4:00 pm—leading to today, and then beginning at 4:00 pm today until 4:00 pm tomorrow. The Galactic Centre is twenty-five thousand light years away, which is why we can’t see it.

Lucky wanted me to say this now: The term “zodiac” means—and our word “zoo” is derived from the same Greek basic terminology—the “circle of animals.” So looking up at the stars in the heavens, you see the shape of the lion in the constellation of Leo, or the shape of the bull in the constellation of Taurus and so on. This was known in ancient astrology of course. Now Sagittarius is this special being, the Centaur, which is half human and half animal. There was the very wise Centaur, called Chiron, who had so much wisdom. He was a great teacher for Jason and the Argonauts who went in search of the Golden Fleece.

When we think of this, the front part of the Archer is the human and he is holding the bow and he is aiming his arrow. The tip of the arrow points—if we could see the Central Sun—to where the Central Sun is—right? There at the tip of the arrow. We call it the “nock”—that I think is an American expression—but it’s okay, that will do! We’re in South America—that is true.

So the Archer is holding the bow and the arrow is aimed at the Galactic Centre. Where the “nock” is, there is a star, Nunki, and it is in alignment with this star. That is where the Sun was at the birth of Jesus of Nazareth. So He is talking all the time about the Heavenly Father—all Christ’s words, you know, ‘the Father has sent me,’ the Father this, the Father that—because He is aiming back towards the Central Sun where He came from.

So this is this heart orientation that we can have. Just think of the event of Pentecost, or the words “I AM the Light of the world,” and feel this quality of heart attunement with the Central Sun.

[Question from a member of the audience]: You know where the centre (inaudible) ... the point where the alignment ... (inaudible).

Robert: Yes, ok.

So, right now, it is 4:00 pm in the afternoon, and we are about 1 ½ hours before sunset. Does anybody know the direction from where the Sun sets, because this is only the second time I have been here? Over there—okay. You have to picture the Sun going down in this direction in the west—the Sun is going down. That is where the Galactic Centre is. When you are out star gazing, you want to find the incredible shape of the Scorpion and see where its tail comes. Just in that area is also where the Central Sun is, because it is between the tail of the Scorpion and the tip of the arrow of the Archer. It is actually quite special to meditate on that configuration because you really do experience something coming from there.

I should just mention that the Galactic Centre was found purely by accident. With telescope astrology—we think of Galileo around that time and the invention of the telescope—this is the mechanical extension of the eyes. And then they had the ingenious idea of listening to the stars—and so radio astronomy is the mechanical extension of the ears. And then there began in 1933—and this was established around the world I believe in 1958, I have to check this out—anyway in the 1950s there was somebody who had pointed this radio astronomy in the direction of the Galactic Centre and experienced this incredible energy and realised that he had found the centre of the galaxy. So it is a relatively recent discovery in the 1950s.

Anyway, it is now coming up to 4:00 pm so we are going to have a short moment of quiet. We can think of all the great teachers of humanity who incarnated as a blessing for humanity, who came to help humankind reach their spiritual goal which is to evolve more and more spiritually and become a true community of humankind united in love and wisdom. This is what each one of us, on a very deep level, longs for.

We don't want this divisiveness, this distortion of what human life is about as an egotistical pursuit. Human life is about much more, and we are seeking to grow together in the stream of influence of the great teachers of humanity to draw ever more and more closer to the great Divine Heart at the centre of our galaxy that has brought everything—all the stars of our galaxy—into being—everything. We owe our source to this stream of Divine Love or the Holy Spirit (however we like to call it).

So at this moment in time, our hearts are aligned with the Sun, aligned with the Central Sun. The Inca called the Sun, Inti, and they called the Central Sun, Hatta Inti, the Great Sun. It is very special in the cycle of the year when we can align our hearts in love with the Central Sun which has created us, and which is leading us back on our long journey—having gained our freedom as individuals (and we don't want to lose it). This is a very extraordinary moment in history with extraordinary challenges and with extraordinary blessings as well, because all the angelic beings who have helped in the work of Creation are with us, wanting us to succeed and come through this time of challenge.

We are now in the month of December in the year 2021. So it has been one full year since the beginning of the vaccine rollout with the, never before, experiments with human beings to turn human beings into genetically modified beings. This is something completely new—and as I have gone into in my podcasts—it is like an entrapment. However, there is a way out of it. I have described this also in the podcasts. And so this is the great challenge of our time, and we need all our intelligence, all our soul capacity, to align ourselves with the power of the Good. I think in particular of the one in Buddhism who is awaited as the next Buddha—the Maitreya Buddha. The name “Maitreya” means “bearer of the Good.” In the Hindu stream, they speak of the Kalki Avatar. The Kalki Avatar is the coming one, who fights against evil. This is what we need. We need this impulse of ‘goodness,’ stronger and stronger, and we need to be able to discern and expose evil and move on.

That is our hope at this special moment in this year of 2021, one year after this great globalist experiment has begun—this special moment in time when we can align ourselves with the heart of our galaxy in love.

Many blessings to everyone here. Feliz Navidad and all of that!

Just to say, I founded the Choreocosmos School of Cosmic and Sacred Movement. I teach—and have taught for many years—the dances of the zodiac and the dances of the planets—the dances of the planets in the signs of the zodiac. If anybody is interested in this, then maybe, Darren, you could keep a list of names and contact information of anybody who is interested. We may possibly be able to meet at Bruno’s place—he has a wonderful space there—or here, or we will find somewhere. We could dance, for example, the Sun in Sagittarius.

This is the very last thing of importance I want to mention. My favourite classical composer is Ludwig van Beethoven who was born at this alignment. He was born with the Sun aligned with the Central Sun and he said on his fiftieth birthday that he was the happiest human being on Earth because he was receiving this Divine Music continuously. His only regret was that he didn’t have enough time to write it all down! If you listen to the music of Beethoven from his perspective, you will find that it does connect you with the Central Sun.

[The audience thanks Robert and claps in appreciation]
